GRAND SIGHT.

Thousands of Devout Catholics Join in Making the Jubilee Visits.

Was the Most Impressive Religious Parade Ever Witnessed Here.

Churches Thronged by Those Seeking to Gain the Indulgence.

WILL BE REPEATED FOUR SUNDAYS

The most impressive religious procession ever witnessed in Louisville was that which occurred last Sunday afternoon, when thousands of devout Catholics with their pastors marched from one church to another making their jubilee visits.

As stated last week, special dispensation was granted the members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society and all accompanying them whereby they could make the jubilee and gain the indulgence thereof by visiting the four designated churches on five consecutive Sundays. The simple announcement was sufficient to assemble a throng that numbered thousands at St. Boniface church at 4 o'clock, where the first prayers were said. The gathering was so great that it had to be divided into four sections. First prayers were recited at St. Boniface church, and then the procession formed and marched to the Cathedral. From there the march was continued to St. Mary's at Eighth and Grayson, and then proceeded to St. Patrick's, which was reached about 6 o'clock, where the services for the day were concluded.

The sight of so many Catholic men offering prayers, not for worldly success, but for the salvation of their souls, was an inspiring one and speaks volumes for those who participated, besides giving assurance that there is in this community a powerful element that will always protect and safeguard the good name of Louisville. This event shows the democracy of the Catholic church in a striking manner. Side by side were clergymen, lawyers, doctors, merchants, manufacturers and laboring men, with all distinctive lines obliterated in the endeavor to carry out the wishes of the Holy Father in doing honor to God and their church.

Father Bax read the prayers and one paper says the responses sounded like the muffled peal of an organ. There was none of the usual display of the church exhibited and many were impressed with the exceeding simplicity and the devotion manifested.

For the next four Sundays these visits will be made, and there is no doubt but that the number will be largely augmented. Those not taking advantage of this opportunity will be required to make fifteen visits to each of the churches, which has already been done by many.

MARRY YOUNG.

Father Hogan's Preaching has Begun to Bring About Weddings.

Rev. Thaddeus Hogan, of the Sacred Heart parish of Trenton, N. J., who has been urging the younger members of his church to marry early, finds many returns to his preachings. Engagements are being announced rapidly. Father Hogan's advice is to marry early in life, thereby shunning evil associates, thus saving earnings, no matter how small they may be, remaining at home with one's family instead of walking the streets and placing one's self in full view of the temptations of the evil world.

"The question of salary," said the priest, should be no bar against this step. A young man earning $10 a week and upward could keep a wife just as well as he can pay $5 a week for board and attend the opera every night and take in all sorts of amusements. The young girls should take this advice home to themselves, too. They are as responsible as the young men. They will not marry a young man nowadays unless he is earning a large salary, so they can dress in silks and satins and make a great showing on the streets. If this step is not taken early in life the young man forever abandons the idea of marrying after he has passed the twenty-five-year mark."

Father Hogan has been preaching thus for a long time, but not until recently did he insist on the matter being considered seriously. The population of the Sacred Heart parish is the largest in the city, and there were fewer marriages in this church in the past year than any other Roman Catholic church in Trenton. The priest also insists that the members of the Sacred Heart church should select a partner for life in that parish and not go to the extreme end of the city, to another church of the same faith just to marry away from home.

Father Hogan has been in his parish for nearly thirty years. He is the oldest priest in Trenton. The first couple to announce themselves for the matrimonial state since Father Hogan's sermon two weeks ago were George Heath, a popular young clerk of his parish, and Miss Margaret Pausel, a recent graduate of the State Normal School. Neither has reached majority.

GAELIC GAMES.

The Hibernians May Arrange For Real Old Irish Field Day.

During the past few weeks there has been some talk of an event here that should interest Hibernians all over Kentucky and also the neighboring States. The suggestion will soon be submitted to the County Board, whose action thereon will be eagerly awaited.

Just think, a real old Irish field day, with Gaelic games that call for the best athletic development. Nothing of the kind has ever been attempted here, and were it properly placed before the public the sport would be witnessed by thousands. Make it strictly a Hibernian affair, none but members of the order to compete in the several athletic contests, Irish music, Irish dances, Irish games. There would be a feast of pleasure and would call back the old days when the sons and daughters of Erin enjoyed themselves in their native land despite the tyranny of a despotic Government. The suggestion is also made that the divisions procure copies of the constitution of the Gaelic Athletic Association of Dublin. Such an affair should attract an audience of 15,000 people.

SPLENDID MEETING.

New Louisville Jockey Club Scoring an Unqualified Success.

This year's meeting of the New Louisville Jockey Club surpasses all others in the turf history of Kentucky. Each day the weather has been all that could be desired, the attendance large and each race filled. The track has been fast and every ruling has been most satisfactory, not a single protest having yet been heard.

The card for next week is an excellent one, every day having races that will bring forth all the cracks of the turf. Monday the great Clark States will be decided, and besides the stars of the Derby there will be several other fleet ones.

Tuesday a large field will contest the Wrennah States, for two-year-olds and geldings, and on Wednesday the event will be the Frank Fehr Stakes, besides which President Schulte and Secretary Drexler have arranged purses for some of the most exciting and well filled races of the season.

Thursday there will be five events, including selling, purse and handicap races, and on Friday the card embraces the Juvenile Stakes, the Gentlemen's Cup and three others. The meeting closes Saturday with the Kentucky Oaks, for which there has always been great rivalry. The rest of the day's programme will be announced Thursday afternoon.

ST. PETER'S CHAIR.

The actual material chair of St. Peter is now venerated in his basilica in Rome and enshrined in the splendid bronze throne supported by colossal figures of four doctors of the church, Sts. Ambrose, Augustine, Athanasius and Chrysostom, the whole weighing 219,000 Roman pounds. The actual seat is a simple oak chair, which only in the ninth century was adorned in front with ivory plates. Until the time of Alexander VIII. the position of the relic frequently changed. In the oldest church of St. Peter, built by Constantine between 320 and 350, the chair had a place of honor at one of the sides in the baptismal chapel erected by Pope Damasus. In those days the Roman Pontiffs used to seat themselves upon this chair in order to administer confirmation to the neophytes just baptized. In the eighth century contemporary pictures represented the chair as kept in the oratory of St. Leo. Archaeologists like De Rossi and Marucchi have proved the existence of this venerable relic as far back as the second century. Even at that time it was looked upon with the highest veneration as a material proof of the apostolic succession. In the sixth century the Abbot John is recorded as having carried some of the oil from the lamp ever burning before the apostolic throne to the Lombard Queen Theodolinda. —[London Tablet.]

ALWAYS SMILING.

A happy face may often does conceal an aching, weary heart. Often we remark about certain persons: "How happy they appear!" They are always good-natured, and their cup of joy must be full. Still at the same time a turbulent sea of sadness and despair may be raging within, while without all is glossed by apparent serenity and happiness. They are fighting life's battle nobly, courageously and giving a noble example to be followed. Even though our burdens are heavy and discouragements many we yet should strive to make others happy, and a smiling face will do wonders for those about us.

DARK CANDIDATE.

For some days past there has been talk in certain quarters that the Republicans would present a dark horse candidate for the Mayoralty. The present aspirants for the office are ex-Mayor Booker Reed and James Grinstead, and from information obtained from the most reliable sources they will be the only candidates.

TWENTY

Societies Send Delegates to the Catholic Union Meeting Sunday.

Lawyer Thomas Walsh Delivers an Interesting and Pleasing Address.

Delegates and Alternates Who Will Attend National Convention.

IMPORTANT TOPICS WERE DISCUSSED

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Union last Tuesday night at Sattoli Council Hall was largely attended, delegates from twenty societies being present. The proceedings were interesting and instructive throughout, the important topics being ably discussed by such well known citizens as P. J. Dowling, John Rudd, James Rogers, John Scott, Newton Rogers, John Barrett, George Lautz, Pat Sullivan, William C. Smith, John Crotty, James B. Kelly, Dr. Clark and Dr. Lammers. The question of the erection of a building occasioned some spirited remarks, though no definite action was taken.

President McDermott occupied the chair. Secretary Conroy read a letter from Henry Frese, of Erie, Chairman of the National Committee on Organization, setting forth the reasons why the proposed national convention, to be held at Cincinnati, had been postponed. The Committee on Plan and Scope were not ready to report, but were sending out letters to cities where federations now exist, and urge first the formation of local, and then State and national Federations. Communications were also received concerning the Ohio State Federation which meets at Cincinnati on Monday, and the invitation to the union to visit the same was accepted.

The committee appointed to nominate delegates to the National convention recommended Hon. Edward J. McDermott and Dr. J. W. Fowler, with John J. Sullivan and William C. Smith as alternates, and they were chosen by acclamation.

The special committee of which John Crotty was Chairman made its report, which was received with favor.

Representatives of the union will in the near future visit the various Catholic societies for the purpose of having them all affiliated, Miss Mary Sheridan heading this committee.

After the regular order had been gone through President McDermott introduced the speaker of the evening, Thomas Walsh, the well known attorney.

Mr. Walsh spoke very eloquently on the various matters that had been discussed at the meeting. He said that whether the union failed or not, those who had promoted it would deserve the highest praise for the hearty work that they had done. Mr. Walsh declared the meeting reminded him of a joke he had read in Puck on an Irishman: The Irishman had his corn, oats and potatoes planted, when along came a dry season and there was nothing, but dry weather, no relief in sight; so he got down on his knees and prayed to the good Lord to send a rain, and was delighted to see clouds gathering in the west. He watched them from his window, spreading all over the place and over his farm, accompanied by thunder and a great wind, and he knelt down and thanked God for sending the rain. But though there was great thunder and the wind was blowing furiously there was little or no rain at all, so Pat got down, and his whole family with him, and prayed that there would be a little less thunder and wind and a little more rain. He stated that was what some of the members of the union desired, a little less thunder and wind and a little more rain or results. He also stated that the meetings had been useful in the manner of showing different views on the matters discussed.

He then went on to show how the union could be made useful locally, and suggested several objects which could be treated. Mr. Walsh related several of his experiences locally in the matter of attention paid to organizations in comparison to the attention paid to individuals. He then spoke of the good that could be accomplished by having a national organization, referring to the matter of the Indian schools, etc. As the objects had been pretty well discussed, Mr. Walsh said he would close by reading a poem which had been published in the Boquet, of Boston, and republished in several other Catholic journals: Steadily the light is sailing, it is passing from the sky, And I see a darkness trailing through the lowlands coming nigh. Every moment I hear tapping on my windows with affright, And I see a phantom flapping its black pinions in the night. Now and then I hear the calling of strange voices from afar, And I see a meteor falling from the heavens like a star. Owls are hooting, hooting lonely, in each dismal solitude, Where a torrent dashes only now and then within the wood. Steadily the light is falling and the night is coming on,

For I hear its garments trailing by my palace on the lawn. Everywhere the gloom increases and 'tis growing dark and still, And the hollow blast now ceases, though lightning on the hill.

Somewhere near I hear a river passing with a sullen roar, And a sable bark forever rides at anchor on its shore.

Down the shoreway I am going to take passage in the bark On the current that is flowing seaward far into the dark; Seaward, where rough waves are bounding, and we hear, while tempest swept, Bells and signal guns resounding dimly along the deep.

What to me are now the glories of the kingdoms of the earth, Or the fame and idle stories of their royalty and worth.

What to me the pomp and splendor of great Venices and Romes, With the moonlight shining tender on their palaces and domes; What to me all human power, though it reach from shore to shore, When I hear at this dark hour death there tapping at the door?

Like the clouds depart from heaven, and their rosy peaks decay, Or like rainbows melt at even, now their grandeur fades away. For like undulating billows, or dim shadows on the mere, Or soft wings among the willow, they arise and disappear.

Now one simple act of merit that my memory can recall Is far sweeter to my spirit than their glories one and all.

For a glass of water given, or a noble act well done, Will endear me more to heaven than a kingdom lost or won.

Now my only hope of dower, with sweet consolation rife, Is of kindly deeds in flower down the pathway of my life;

Is of gentle words I've spoken to the erring and the frail, And the pledges kept unbroken made beside the chancel rail.

And behold, the highest beauty in my life I now can find

Was the doing my simple duty in the work I was assigned.

Was the homage that I rendered my Redeemer and my God, And the succor that I tendered those afflicted by His rod.

These sweet memories now thrill me like a south wind breathing balm, Or like melodies that fill me with a deep and holy calm.

President McDermott then stated New ton G. Rogers would read a paper at the next meeting. He called upon James Kelly, who made a short address, designating various ways in which the Catholic Union could work. He referred to Father McCarthy's organization in Brooklyn, which had acted upon the suggestion of the Pope's encyclical on labor in forming an organization similar to our Business Women's Club, which had accomplished much good. Mr. Kelly is a very bright and forceful speaker, and was listened to with attention throughout his talk, which on account of the lateness of the hour he made very short.

SUMMER OUTING

Discussed Thursday Night by the Irish-American Society.

Thursday night there was a fine meeting of the Irish-American Society, though the absence of President Nevin and Secretary Byrne was regretted. Their chairs were filled by Tom Tarpey and Tom Claire, each of whom gave general satisfaction. John M. Cunningham was initiated and obligated. Reports showed all members employed and none on the sick list.

Mike Francis introduced the matter of a summer outing, which should be in the nature of a grand Irish-American picnic and reunion. The question was warmly debated and then referred to Messrs. Joe Byrne, Tom Claire and our reporter, who will submit their recommendation next meeting night.

The motion to create a committee on hall was also the occasion for spirited talks by Messrs. W. M. Murphy, John Flynn, William Lawler, Tom Camfield, Pat Connaughton, Mike Francis, John Kenney and others. The motion carried and Chairman Tarpey named Phil McGovern, Thomas Claire and William Lawler as such committee.

The society voted to purchase twenty-five tickets for the exhibition for Miss Blanche Mitchell, which takes place at Macauley's on Tuesday, May 21. Tom Camfield, John Kenney and Pat Connaughton were warmly greeted after an absence of some time. The next meeting should be a rousing one.

GETTING READY.

The St. Aloysius Society has secured Phoenix Hill Park for a picnic on Wednesday, June 19. This society, which is composed of prominent people of the East End, will meet tomorrow after mass at St. Aloysius school hall to arrange for the event, when Dr. Clark, the President, will appoint committees. A large attendance is expected.

If a fishbone gets into the throat beyond reach, swallow at once the white of an egg and it will generally carry down the offending bone.

MARTINELLI

Formally Notified of His Elevation by Pope Leo to the Cardinalate.

Ceremony Took Place at the Papal Legation at Nation's Capital.

The Red Hat Placed Upon His Head by Monsignor Conaty.

OATH WAS ADMINISTERED THURSDAY

Cardinal-elect Martinelli Tuesday evening received from the hands of a member of the Papal Guard of Pope Leo XIII., Count Stanislaus Colacicchi, who has just arrived from Rome, the consistorial letter formally advising him of his elevation to the Cardinalate and the red zucchetto, emblematic of that high office. The ceremony, which was brief and simple, occurred at the Papal legation in the presence of a number of church dignitaries. Count Colacicchi wore his full uniform, including a massive helmet and a sweeping white cloak heavily braided with gold, falling to his feet.

The Cardinal-elect was attired in the rich silken robes of an Archbishop. He was attended by Monsignor Conaty, rector of the Catholic University, also in his silken vestments, while in a circle before the group were ranged the company invited to witness the ceremony.

Putting aside his cloak, Count Colacicchi saluting the Cardinal-elect, handed him a letter, which was read aloud, and proved to be the credentials of the official messenger. Then a second letter was handed to the Cardinal-elect, who ran through it and handed it to Bishop Keiley, of Savannah, to be read. It was as follows:

From the Secretary of State, Rome, April 15, 1901.—To Monsignor Sebastian Martinelli: In the secret consistory of this morning His Holiness designed to elevate to the sublime dignity of the Cardinalate Monsignor Sebastian Martinelli. This gracious and sovereign favor is brought to the notice of your eminence for your knowledge and guidance.

M. CARDINAL RAMPOLLA. When the letter had been read Count Colacicchi opened a small red morocco case and took therefrom a red silken zucchetto or Cardinal's skull cap. Dr. Conaty removed the purple cap from the head of Monsignor Martinelli and the latter placed the red cap of high office in its stead.

Count Colacicchi, in addressing the Cardinal, referred to the long and eminent services of Monsignor Martinelli, his unflinching devotion to the church and to the Supreme Pontiff and expressed the hope that the blessing of long life would be given the Cardinal.

Cardinal Martinelli spoke briefly. He referred to the illustrious house from which Count Colacicchi descended. So far as he himself knew the favor which the Sovereign Pontiff had deigned to show him was not due to the humble services he had been able to perform but to the graciousness of the Pontiff himself, and as in the past he had always sought to promote the interests of the Pontiff and of religion, so with the help of God he would continue those labors.

A dinner given by the Cardinal to his guests closed the day's ceremonies. The taking of the oath by the new Cardinal will not take place till next week.

Cardinal Martinelli was administered the oath for his new office Thursday at the Papal Legation in Washington, when he also subscribed his signature to the papers that will be forwarded to Rome.

A GIRL'S HOUSEHOLD DUTIES.

A young girl who has but recently left school and has hardly "fitted into" the home life as her mother's right hand often becomes quite lazy and neglectful without realizing the fact in the least. Every girl who is not thoroughly selfish is anxious to lift some of the burden of household management from her mother's shoulders, but unfortunately many girls wait to be asked instead of being on the lookout for little duties which they are capable of doing. If you would be of any real use in the home you must be quick to notice what wants doing; the room that wants dusting, the flowers rearranging, a crooked blind, and don't be only willing to do things, but to do them pleasantly, without "looking a martyr."

Also do things regularly, not off and on. The latter gives more trouble to the person who has to remind you than if she had the doing of them herself. Have a definite day and a definite time for all you do. Begin at once after breakfast and keep steadily on till all your work is done. It is not easy work, but it is quite possible for a daughter to make up a good deal of home's sunshine, and it is only when she has learned this that she is fit to go away and be the sunshine of her own.

HARD TO BEAT.

The younger members of Division 4 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians are at present engaged in organizing a base ball club for the coming season, and when completed the team will be a hard one to beat. A challenge is hereby issued to any other division or Irish-American fraternal society in the city. All communications should be addressed to Secretary John J. Grogan, 1710 Seventh street.

LAD TO REST.

Mrs. Margaret Hines Passes Away After Long and Useful Life.

Mrs. Margaret Hines, widow of the late Martin Hines, and for the past forty-nine years an esteemed and highly respected resident of Louisville, died last Sunday afternoon at the family residence, 1723 Pope street. Though having attained almost three score and ten, she maintained all her faculties, and surrounded by her children and relatives she calmly awaited the summons which released her from all earthly cares, fortified by the sacraments of her church.

Mrs. Hines was a devout Catholic, being for years one of the prominent members of St. Aloysius' church, her advice and counsel always being highly prized. Among her wide circle of friends she was known as a lovable and Christian woman. Three daughters, all of whom are married, survive her. They are Mrs. Douglas Masterson, Mrs. William Redington and Mrs. Edward Shadburne. Mrs. Catherine Casey, of 1330 Payne street, is her only surviving sister.

Her funeral took place from St. Aloysius' church, Rev. Father O'Grady, the celebrant of the requiem high mass, preaching a touching sermon, in which he dwelt at length upon the many virtues of the deceased and the high esteem in which she was held by all who knew her. The church was thronged with sorrowing friends and relatives, and a long line of carriages followed the remains to St. Louis cemetery, where they were tenderly laid to rest amid embankments of flowers. Her life was a holy one, and all pray that her soul may rest in peace.

GOOD FOR THEM.

Louisville Irishmen Secure Contract For Boston Aqueduct.

Dennis Shanahan & Sons, of this city, who are known as the most successful contractors in this country, were this week awarded work on the aqueduct for the Boston waterworks which will amount to over $1,000,000.

The Shanahans only recently completed a $2,500,000 contract on the Chicago drainage canal, and they now have contracts under way with the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad aggregating over $1,000,000. This firm also had the contract and built the Richmond, Nicholasville, Irvine & Beattyville railroad, which was their largest undertaking in Kentucky.

The new work will not be completed for a year, and the younger members of the firm, who are well known and highly regarded in business and social circles in Louisville, will be missed, though their many friends are gratified over the success of these enterprising Irishmen.

MACKIN COUNCIL.

Mackin Council's last meeting was more largely attended than for some time past, there being but few vacant chairs when President Dan Cunniffe took his seat. An immense amount of business was transacted, and the proceedings were spirited and interesting. All are looking forward to the annual outing in June. The weekly eucches have been resumed and are now more enjoyed than ever.

REFUSED PAYMENT.

Mrs. Mary McNamara, a widow, has sued the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for the payment of two policies, aggregating over $500, on the life of her son, Michael McNamara, who was killed in the Galveston disaster. The jury should allow her the full amount and costs. Foreign corporations should be made to pay, as do those at home, and which are deserving of better patronage.

BALL PLAYER DEAD.

Tom Esterbrook, the once famous ball player and Captain of the Louisville club, jumped from a train near New York last Wednesday and received injuries which caused his death. For two years he was afflicted with mild dementia, and was on his way to the Middletown State Hospital in charge of his brother and a friend when he plunged through a window and fractured his skull.

CONVALESCING.

The many friends of Mr. Thomas Justa, the genial and accommodating Superintendent of St. Francis' Hall, will rejoice over the news that he is now convalescent after a long and serious illness at his home, 951 Fifth street. His presence in the library, where he is most missed, is anxiously awaited by its many patrons.

DEAD SOLDIER'S MASS.

The anniversary requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of William L. Higgins, the young soldier who lost his life in the Philippine Islands, was celebrated at the Sacred Heart church Monday morning by Rev. John J. Higgins, who came here from Binghamton, N. Y., for that purpose.

The rooster makes two-thirds of the noise, but the hen does all the work.

FRANKFORT.

Death of Mrs. William Caden Causes Profound Sorrow.

Miss Mayme Caden to Complete Her Musical Studies in Europe.

Miss Nonie Parker and James Sullivan Will Wed in June.

ALL IS QUIET AT THE STATE CAPITAL

(Special Correspondence of the Kentucky Irish American.)

FRANKFORT, KY., May 2.—Everything socially, personally and politically has been exceedingly quiet at the usually gay State capital for the past week or two, and news items of that nature are exceedingly scarce. While there are rumors of numerous June weddings, and perhaps strong grounds for said rumors, yet correspondent is not at liberty to mention the names of the happy young couples present, as it is a "delightful secret" known by almost every one except the happy young contracting parties. It has always been conceded that June is the most delightful month of the year to enter upon the happy sea of matrimony, and the young people of the capital evidently are of that opinion, as future announcements will prove beyond a shadow of a doubt.

On Wednesday afternoon, June 1, the Church of the Good Shepherd marriage of two of the most promising young people in Frankfort will be solemnized when Miss Nonie Parker, James Sullivan will be united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. T. S. Major, the pastor. Miss Parker is one of Frankfort's most popular and charming girls, having been for some time chief operator in the local office of the East Tennessee (now Cumberland) Telephone Company. Her polite and most accommodating manner made hundreds of friends both in and out of the city. Mr. Sullivan has been for several years manager of East Tennessee Telephone Company (now Cumberland) office in this city, and is recognized as one of Frankfort's leading young business men, who has by close attention to business built up a splendid patronage for his company. The many friends of the happy young couple tender best wishes for a long life of happiness and prosperity.

Blackfoot Tribe, Independent Order of Red Men, was organized in this city last week by Messrs. Jones and Clifford, of Louisville, with a charter membership of fifty-seven names. The lodge was organized with the usual formalities and ceremonies of the order, which are very impressive, and all members are enthusiastic for the success of the Tribe, and as the charter will remain open until May 31 and the initiation fee will not be raised until after that day, the present number will doubtless be augmented by many more before June 1.

Last week the sad intelligence reached this city of the death of Mrs. Will Cushing (nee Katie Collins) at the home of her husband in Louisville. To many of her numerous friends in this city the intelligence came in the nature of a sad shock, while others who knew that the dread disease consumption had several months ago fastened itself upon her were daily expecting it. Mrs. Cushing was only married a little over a year and had everything to make a young couple happy, when the dread monster death came and blighted the happy home. Born and reared in Frankfort, Mrs. Cushing was known and liked by a large circle of friends and acquaintances who doubtless last week shed a tear upon her bier when the last sad rites were said by Father Major, who only a few short months ago pronounced the solemn and binding words of the marriage ceremony. To the heartbroken husband, father and mother and sorrowing relatives goes the heartfelt sympathy of their scores of friends in this city who had known the deceased from childhood and hope that she has safely reached that haven of rest, there to enjoy forever that celestial bliss realized only by the elect.

Lieut. William Lutkemeier and John W. Gayle spent Sunday very pleasantly in Georgetown.

Messrs. John J. Nugent, William Maher and Sid Hughes, of Lexington, spent Sunday with friends in the capital city.

The many friends of Miss Mayme Caden, of Georgetown, who has often visited in this city and Lexington, will be glad to hear that she will on May 8 leave for Europe to take a course of music at the best conservatories in the old world. Miss Caden is a graduate of Cardome, at Georgetown, this State, and early exhibited a phenomenal talent for music. During the past two years she has been studying under the direction of one of the finest teachers of music in this country at Cardome, and now goes to complete her course at the leading academies abroad. She has a delightful personality and has the many qualifications usually found in the charming Kentucky girl, and will doubtless add many new friends to her circle before she returns to Kentucky from her European tour.
